British Leader Declares Allies Can Outlast The Enemy In Manpower And Money

MANCHESTER, Eng., Jan. 27—(AP)—(Via Radio) — Winston Churchill, first lord of the admiralty, today characterized the Germany of 1914-1918 a "stronger enemy" than the nazi Germany of today.

In a speech in free trade hall, Churchill said he doubted the ability of the Germany of today to withstand the reverses as did the Kaiser's people in the last war.

"I always hesitate to say anything that tends to underrate the formidable character of the foe we have to fight," he said. "Yet, I cannot rid my mind of the thought that the imperial Germany of 1914 was a stronger enemy than the nazi Germany of today."

Frequently during his speech Churchill was interrupted by hecklers shouting, "We want Mosley" (Sir Oswald Mosley, British facist leader) but the speaker, as soon as order was restored, carried on without comment.

Can Outlast Enemy.

Churchill said he had no idea what the war would cost but he believed that France and England in money and manpower "can and will outlast the enemy."

Churchill said that half of Germany's U-boats had been destroyed and that new building had "fallen far short of what we originally estimated."

The menace of mines, he said, was being controlled and German imports decisively curtailed and

Edna B. Williams Dies Suddenly

Lincoln High Registrar Had Been With School System Since 1910

Miss Edna B. Williams, registrar at Lincoln high school and associated with the school since 1910, died suddenly Saturday morning of a heart attack at her home, 2045 K street.

She had set her alarm to go to school at the usual time, and prepared to go to work. A little late, her roommate, Nettie Marks, saw that Miss Williams had not gone, found that she was very ill, and summoned an ambulance. Miss Williams was dead when the ambulance reached the hospital.

Miss Williams became associated with the Lincoln public schools in 1910 when she was employed in the general offices of the school district and worked there until 1923. That year she left Lincoln and went to Omaha where she operated a gift shop. She returned in 1924 and became registrar at the Lincoln high school.

Two sisters, Mrs. Ira Longstreet of Goodman, Mo., and Miss Mildred Williams of Los Angeles, survive her.

Towle Pleads For A Parole For Strasheim

. . . At Unusual Hearing

Shepherd To Hear Matter Feb. 3; Denies New Trial Motion

District Judge Fred Shepherd Saturday denied a new trial to Arnold Strasheim, 31-year-old beer tavern operator convicted Dec. 15 on a manslaughter charge, and ordered a hearing Feb. 3 on an application for a bench parole after an extraordinary plea by Max Towle, Lancaster county attorney.

Towle, who prosecuted Strasheim, told the court that "all during the trial x x x there was a question in my mind as to whether or not this young man ought to be incarcerated in the penitentiary.

"I had the feeling, desire and hope that your honor would parole him no matter the verdict and I think that the jury thought he would be paroled.

Claims It A Duty.

"I know I'm taking a peculiar position, but I'm going to do it because I think it the best disposition of the case and I would be remiss in my duty if I didn't."

The county attorney declared he is 'conscientiously and honestly convinced that parole would be for the best interests of all concerned."

Strasheim was charged with manslaughter in connection with the death of John Shea, who suffered a fractured skull when ejected from the defendant's beer tavern at 134 South Tenth street last July 1.

Before Towle spoke, Judge Shepherd had told Max Kier, defense attorney, that while it was within the power of the court to consider parole and that he would do so, it ordinarily is not granted where the case has been fought through and a verdict reached by a jury.

Kier countered with the assertion that "I don't believe public policy or the statutes make it necessary for a defendant to plead

Youth Still Has New Fields Open

. . . DR. WEIDLER SAYS

Nationalism Main Enemy Today, Swartzwelder Tells Older Boys

"The next generation should not think of itself as the lost generation," Dr. D. E. Weidler, president of York college said Saturday afternoon at the Nebraska Older Boys conference at the Y. M. C. A.

There are still plenty of opportunities and new fields are constantly being opened, he said. The responsibility of youth rests in obtaining an education according to their capacity. "Youth is responsible to the extent of its capacity for its development and service," he said.

Christian ethics, Dr. Weidler said, should be the ideal for personal development and therefore personal responsibility.

Proposing a Christian internationalism, Dr. William M. Swartzwelder, vice president and field secretary at Hastings college addressed the morning meeting.

Like Flying Blind.

He said that the world is like a plane flying blind, knowing that there is a landing place somewhere below, but not being able to see it. Dr. Swartzwelder said that the chief enemy of the world is nationalism and not atheism or humanism or narrow intellectualism.

"Civilization is in a position of being torn apart by the conflict of ideas between people who want to share in government and the dictators," he said.

"It's a shame to treat civilization with dictatorial ideals because there is something great in it," he said. "It's a shame to cut its head off, because there is something in it."

Dictators Temporary.

The dictators are only temporary, Dr. Swartzwelder said, and they will soon fade into oblivion. When a man becomes bitter in his soul toward one group of persons, he said speaking of Hitler, he loses sight of their value to humanity and soon loses his ideals.

Discussion groups were conducted at both afternoon and morning meetings with the following leaders: Dr. W. K. Beggs of the teachers college; Chris Keim, graduate assistant in the chemistry department; Dr. Carl Rosenquist, assistant professor at the ag college, Royce Knapp, graduate assistant at teachers college, and Wendell Groth of the Lincoln Hi-Y.

A banquet will be held Saturday evening, with Rabbi J. J. Ogle giving the address. The delegates will attend the Oklahoma-Nebraska basketball game after the banquet. The conference will close Sunday morning with Dr. Bryan S. Stoffer, president of Doane college, speaking on "Christian Education and Democracy."

The nature of these measures was not explained, but a ministry spokesman emphasized that no essential war supplies, such as airplanes, had been subject to delays.

The announcement was intended to counter reports from Finland that some ships carrying war materials to the Finns had been delayed several days at the British contraband control base at Kirkwall, in the Orkney islands.

The trust is to continue until Jan. 1, 1960, or until his wife's death, whichever the later, but in no event later than the death of the survivors of Mr. Freeman's children and grandchildren living at his death, according to the will.

Remnants of Four Divisions Trying to Retreat—Thousands Dead, Wounded Left—Hundreds of Tanks, Cars And Guns Are Abandoned

HELSINKI, Jan. 27—(AP)—A crushing Russian defeat northeast of Lake Ladoga with the capture of huge quantities of tanks and other war material by the Finns was reported today by unofficial Finnish sources.

Four Russian divisions, believed to have totalled originally 70,000 men, were said to be in disastrous retreat, leaving thousands dead and wounded on the wintry battlefields.

The Finnish sources indicated that the red army had suffered its most outstanding disaster since its invasion of Finland began nearly two months ago.

Abandon War Material.

These reports said the Russians, desperately trying to escape from an icy trap into which Field Marshal Baron Mannerheim's generals had led them, had abandoned hundreds of tanks, armored cars, motorized anti-aircraft guns and other artillery.

More red army material was said to have been destroyed.

How many Russian soldiers froze to death, were killed or died of starvation still was unclear, the Finns said, but the belief here was that only a fraction of four divisions engaged in a long-drawn battle in that area had succeeded in escaping.

Terse Communique.

Tonight's army communique was terse and noncommital, saying only that attacks at various points northeast of Lake Ladoga had been repulsed and "some of the attacking detachments were dispersed in entirety."

"Numerous automatic weapons of various types came into our hands," it added.

On the sea, the high command reported a Russian submarine had been destroyed.

Previous unofficial Finnish reports on the fighting above Lake Ladoga had indicated two trapped soviet divisions might be beyond help, while a crisis was expected momentarily for two others.

Benefited by the coldest winter in 60 years, the Finnish forces have launched attack after attack at Kollaanjoki and at Aittojoki, near the Russian border north of the lake.

Aid To Be Expedited.

(By the Associated Press.)

The British government, following complaints that its contraband control system was delaying supplies consigned to Finns, announced that special steps had been taken to expedite such aid, including deliveries from the United States.

In the Far East, Japan was occupied with her relations both

Ice Hockey Game, Newcomers And Travel Make News

COME Saturday we always wonder if there will be any news—and if—what—on account of and because we spend the other five working days in the week—and we must admit that we close neither our eyes nor ears just because it's Sunday—scouring the country side for interesting things to tell you—

Some of our news today has to do with the ice hockey game tonight in Omaha—We hear that Mr. and Mrs. George Rohman are going from Lincoln, and with them will be several Nebraska football players — Herm Rohrig, Walter Luther, Clarence Herndon, Harry Hopp, and Roy Petsch. The group will dine at the Athletic club preceding the game, and afterward they will go to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elton Loucks, for supper.

• • •

SPEAKING OF Omaha—Mrs. Daniel Van Dyk, who with Mr. Van Dyk and their two children came to Lincoln recently from Boston to make their home, went to Omaha today to spend a few days with Dr. and Mrs. Leon S. McGoogan.

• • •

HEARD SOMEPLACE or other, that Mr. and Mrs. Dana Cole were in New York City, combining business with a bit of pleasure—

• • •

AND WHILE on the subject of travelers — Miss Jennie Adams, accompanied by Miss Lula Wirt of Kearney, has gone to Mexico for a winter holiday.

• • •

SOMEONE JUST told us that Dr. and Mrs. Robert Stein arrived yesterday from Canadaigua, N. Y., to make their home in Lincoln. Dr. Stein is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Stein.

• • •

UNDERSTAND that Mrs. Victor Krause has a week-end foursome at her home—her son, Eugene Klose and Mrs. Klose, of Kansas City—and her daughter, Mrs. Clarence Anderson and Mr. Anderson, of Hastings.

• • •

LINCOLN HAS an indirect interest in the Twentieth Century Civic theater in Wichita, Kas., this week—for having a role in the play "The Queen's Husband" was Margaret Hawxby Reese. Mrs. Reese is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hawxby of Lincoln. Mrs. Reese will also appear in the annual play presented by the Twentieth Century club of Wichita in February.

Mrs. Frank Gerbig Honored At Party

Mrs. W. E. Hill, of Lincoln, and Mrs. Melvin Metsker, of Denton, entertained at a birthday surprise party Friday evening, honoring Mrs. Frank Gerbig at her home. Seventeen were present for pinochle, in which Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gerbig made the high score and Mrs. A. G. Elander and Hartley Anderson, the low. Refreshments were served at tables, and pink and blue tapers and the birthday cake were used on the buffet. Lincoln guests were Mr. and Mrs. Elander, Mr. and Mrs. George Knotts, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Hill, Mrs. H. E. Rathbone, and Mr. Anderson.

Mary Lou Steinbrecker Weds Victor O. Kohler

Miss Ellen DeVriendt Becomes Bride Of C. Austin Sutherland

BEFORE a white satin drape with arrangements of huckleberry and two large urns of pink and white snapdragons and stock, Miss Ellen DeVriendt, daughter of Mrs. Sarah DeVriendt-Young, became the bride of C. Austin Sutherland, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Sutherland, at an afternoon ceremony today in Grace Lutheran church. On either side of the altar, where the Rev. Leland Lesher, the pastor, read the lines at 2 o'clock, were candelabra of cathedral tapers and before it, the white kneeling bench.

As the sixty guests were gathering, Mrs. Fulton Hines gave a prelude of "Serenade," Schubert; "To the Evening Star," Wagner; and "Du Bist Wie Eine Blume," Rubinstein. As the bridal party came down the white aisle, she played the Lohengrin chorus and the Mendelssohn music for the recessional. Mrs. Hines accompanied the vows with soft nuptial selections.

Towle Favors Bench Parole For Strasheim

guilty to a crime of which he doesn't think he is guilty in order to obtain a parole.

"I don't believe Strasheim falls in a criminal category," Kier averred, "and it doesn't seem that justice demands he be sentenced to prison for this matter."

Speaks Sternly.

Judge Shepherd told the defense it would have to come in "better grace" with his argument last Saturday, when the motion for a new trial was argued and declared that "you're not placing yourself on the mercy of the court, you're just taking this means of going free. If I rule against you, you'll appeal to the Supreme court. If this is another way of maintaining your innocence and establishing your right to being discharged, I shan't hear you for a minute."

He asked, rhetorically, if Kier would consider himself precluded from proceedings in the Supreme court if a hearing on a parole were granted, and pointed out that only once in his 25 years on the bench has a man who stood trial been turned free on parole.

Towle Interprets Verdict.

County Attorney Towle told the judge that the jury's recommendation for leniency indicated a desire to keep Strasheim out of prison and that he felt somewhat responsible because in argument he told the jury the could could parole the defendant if he were found guilty.

Judge Shepherd reviewed the case briefly before overruling the motion for a new trial, particularly with regard to his instruction on leniency and the talk he made the 12 men on the morning they reached their decision.

He said he thought his talk was "far from directing them to find at all or to reach a decision and that "it seems to me there could be no error in respect to it."

The judge said it might have been error to call in the jury without the consent of the defendant, but that if it was, it was not prejudicial to the rights of the defendant.

Warmer In South.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 27—(AP) — Shivering southerners, gaily greeting a record snowstorm but weary of it all after four days costly to business and crops, were cheered today by promises of slowly moderating weather in a cotton country unaccustomed and unprepared for severe cold waves.

Hampered further by ice-glazed streets and highways, the sun-loving south struggled back toward normalcy with its losses running into millions of dollars. No one would make estimates, but it was agreed that damages to property, vegetables, highways and the rich fruit crops would run high.

She received the British answer to her protest against last Saturday's seizure of 21 German seamen from a Japanese steamer—and the foreign office promptly indicated it was unsatisfactory.

Her trade treaty with the United States now is dead—abrogated by the United States following repeated interference by Japanese with American interests in China.

"Never Will Yield."

One reaction came from the social mass party which resolved that Japanese "never will yield to threats of interference by third powers."

At almost the same time in Tsingtao the Japanese-backed leader for a proposed new Chinese government, Wang Ching-wei, said his regime "will guarantee the just rights and interests of third party powers" in the territory conquered by the Japanese.

The lower house of the Union of South Africa's parliament defeated 81-59 a resolution by former Prime Minister General J. B. Hertzog calling for restoration of peace between Germany and the Union.

exports virtually cut off. On the other hand, he declared, Britain's exports and imports were increasing steadily.

"Out of nearly 7,500 ships convoyed to and from this island only 15 have been lost. Our convoy system is becoming more refined and rapid as the weeks go by, and x x x our imports are steadily rising again, and the ships we have captured and the ships we have built have almost made good the losses we have suffered."

Foresees Victory.

Churchill said he felt "I was right as I said in one of my earlier broadcasts that if we reached the spring without any serious offensive on sea or land I think we shall have gained the opening campaign of the war."

"I think these extra months of preparation have been a Godsend to us and if we do not relax Herr Hitler has lost his last chance."

The government, he continued, cannot yet place in the field the vast army it has formed and is still forming, and munition factories must yet be brought to full production.

"But we are far ahead of where we were at this time in the other war," he said.

Will Electrify Barricades

TIENTSIN, Jan. 27—(AP)—Japanese barricades around the British and French concessions in Tientsin will be electrified again beginning tomorrow, the Japanese military announced today.

Wires originally were charged on June 20, six days after the Japanese imposed their blockade on the concessions, but restrictions have been relaxed and then tightened again many times in the last seven months.

The new tightening was attributed by observers to fresh Japanese resentment against the British, precipitated principally by the seizure last Saturday of 21 German seamen by a British warship from the Japanese steamer Asama maru.

Health Engineering Work Is Described

. . . BY T. A. FILIPI

Public health engineering, the business of reducing causes of ill health to a minimum, was described in detail to members of the Interprofessional Institute Saturday at the Lincoln hotel by T. A. Filipi, state health engineer.

The role of engineering in health, he recalled, stepped into the spotlight during the Panama canal construction days when engineering methods were used to stamp out mosquito breeders of fever.

Since that time, states have become more and more interested in health engineering, and the field has gradually increased. Last year in Nebraska, the state public health engineering division had a part in the planning and construction of 30 disposal plants. The use of federal funds, Filipi said, aided greatly in some of these constructions.

Monoxide Discovered.

The health engineer, he said, steps in to help the physician after ailments have been reported. Recently, children of a western Nebraska school complained of headaches. The physician reported the cause: Carbon monoxide. The state health department found, and helped correct the trouble—a defective furnace and ventilating system.

Today, the field of public health engineering includes inspection and study of: air, water, milk and food supplies; sewage and garbage disposal; control of rodents and insects; industrial hygiene; sanitation in public places, and nuisances such as odors, gases and noise.

ROOSEVELT MAY MAKE STATEMENT

. . ON THIRD TERM SOON

Rumor Hinges On Parley With Senator Donahey; President Still Mum On Intentions

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27—(INS)—Further projection of Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana into the 1940 presidential picture and rumors that President Roosevelt will make an important political statement some time in February featured activity of the democratic campaign front today.

The rumors concerning a possible statement by the president—presumably on his third term intentions—emanated from congressional sources. At the White House, Mr. Roosevelt continued to parry all questions on that subject and his aides were without information on it.

Senator Wheeler, who urged in Columbus, O., that the president make his political intentions known soon to prevent the democratic party from being plunged into "a chaotic condition," found his own stock as a presidential prospect rising. The rousing reception accorded Wheeler at the United Mine Workers' convention in Columbus indicated that John L. Lewis' CIO union might lean toward the Montanan's candidacy.

Rumor Hinges on Conference.

The Capitol Hill rumor that Mr. Roosevelt was about to break his silence seemingly hinged on Senator Vic Donahey's conference at the White House Thursday. The Ohio senator is in a position to control his delegation to the democratic national convention.

The Ohio primary falls on May 14 this year. Candidates for the presidency must assent in writing to use of their names 60 days before that date, or by March 14. It is customary, however, to file in February to avoid confusion and permit more time for campaigning.

Observers from the Buckeye state anticipate that Donahey will file as a favorite son candidate—but if Mr. Roosevelt should decide to run, his announcement also would have to be made at an early date.

Men closely associated with the president, however, while admitting they are not in his confidence on this score, continue to predict that his pronouncement on the subject of a third term will be withheld for some time. This group holds to the view Mr. Roosevelt wants to retire.

BALL PLAYERS GET STATE AID

Browns, Blues Grab Slice Unemployment Fund In Missouri

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Jan. 27—(AP)—Ten professional baseball players—some of them major leaguers—are collecting unemployment insurance in Missouri, state records disclosed today.

Several players from the rosters of the St. Louis American league and Kansas City American association clubs have been admitted to the rolls. Their names were not available.

A member of the St. Louis Browns, whose salary is between $8,000 and $9,000 for the baseball season, is among them.

William O. Deweitt, vice president and general manager of the Browns, declined to identify his players collecting benefits.

"I tried my best to stop them," Deweitt said, "but was unable to do so. And one of them is receiving a salary from us of between $8,000 and $9,000."

Fifteen Per Week.

The players collect the maximum $15 a week as long as they are idle—up to a maximum of 12 weeks. But if the employment service finds them a job, they'll have to take it or get off the rolls.

Their right to benefits during the off season was upheld in a ruling by former Attorney General E. C. Crow, now a member of the state unemployment compensation commission.

"It doesn't seem right to me that ball players—some of whom make more in a few months than a common working man does in a year—should be given job insurance, but under the law there's nothing we can do but give it to them if they qualify," said Andrew J. Murphy, the commission chairman.

Class Speakers See Need For Solemn Thought

Urge Keen Interest In Politics, Economy; Diplomas to 200

Two hundred graduating seniors were told to "develop a keen judgment in political matters" and to secure economic efficiency, at the annual mid-year commencement exercise held Friday night at the Lincoln high school auditorium.

Normajane Brittain and Dorothy Lucille Buls were the student speakers as 181 graduates from Lincoln high, 17 from Havelock, and one each from Bethany and Jackson high schools received their diplomas. The awards were presented by W. A. Robbins, president of the board of education.

"We, the future citizens, need to develop keen judgment in political matters in order to distinguish those who seek to destroy it," declared Miss Brittain. "The entire life of the school should be a youthful experience in democratic living, quickening social inventiveness and agitating social conscience."

20 Million Unused Votes.

Pointing out that 20 million citizens failed to vote in the 1932 election, Miss Brittain urged her classmates to consider it "a privilege and a duty to vote." She warned, however, against propaganda influence, enumerating several devices used by the propagandist.

Terming education the best tool for dealing with the problems of voting, propaganda, crime and race, the speaker said that "Lincoln high school has given us good training for our future political, social and economic problems. Every year, Lincoln high holds an election that is carried on just like a county or state election.

"Life in a democracy," she said, "means freedom, justice and equality. If we do not fulfill our civic duties, our freedom might turn to Germany's Naziism; our justice to Russia's inhumanity; our equality to Indian's class restriction."

Fears Social Breakdown.

Warning that economic inefficiency may lead to "marriage failures, crime and dictatorship," Miss Buls declared that "we should have a definite goal and we should not look upon economic efficiency with indifference."

"We don't think that America is a parallel to Germany," she said, "but just the other day a plot was uncovered in which seventeen men were charged with attempting to overthrow the government and set up a dictatorship similar to Germany. Hitler rose to power on a wave of unemployment. It can happen here! Our own security is important and it can be gained only through economic efficiency."

Persons lack economic efficiency because they fail to take advantage of educational opportunities, said Miss Buls. Among present day aids are the vocational training programs which help young persons in getting jobs and in developing their abilities along practical lines. We also have consumer education, she said, which is important because people in general do not know how to spend money intelligently.

Goal Important.

"It is not only because people don't take advantage of educational opportunities that they are economically inefficient," said Miss Buls. "Sometimes they lack a definte goal."

The speaker termed education a means of fighting the relief rolls, pointing out that in the United States, 98 per cent of college educated men and 99 per cent of college educated women have never been on relief. Any young person living in Lincoln may have an education if he desires it, she declared.

M. C. Lefler, superintendent, presided over the program, and H. C. Mardis, principal, presented the class. Music was furnished by the Lincoln high school orchestra, conducted by Bernard F. Nevin, and audience singing of America was led by Miss Helen Stowell. Several numbers were presented by the Girls' octet under the direction of Miss Stowell, with Miss Josephine Waddell accompanying. Rev. Garth Sibbald offered invocation and pronounced benediction.

Dr. Miller, Griswold Hit New Deal Spending At Alliance Meeting

ALLIANCE, JJan. 27—(AP)—Two republican gubernatorial candidates criticized new deal policies before the panhandle county officers' association here Friday. Dwight Griswold, Gordon, declared the country "cannot stand permanently for the growing mass of federal red tape in administration of relief."

Dr. A. L. Miller, Kimball, asserted "we cannot continue to accept federal money feeling that in doing so we are spending other people's money. If so, we are due for a rude awakening on pay day."

Idaho Republican Served In U. S. Senate From 1928 To 1932

BOISE, Ida., Jan. 27—(AP)—John W. Thomas of Gooding for the second time in little more than a decade will go to the United States senate to take the place of an Idaho solon removed by death.

Thomas, livestock man and banker, was appointed last night by Gov. C. A. Bottolfsen as successor to the late Senator William E. Borah. He accepted at once.

JOHN W. THOMAS

In June, 1928, upon the death of Senator Frank R. Gooding, Thomas was appointed to the senate. In November of the same year he was elected to finish Gooding's term but was defeated by James P. Pope, a democrat, in 1932.

Borah died at Washington, Jan. 19 after serving 33 years as senator from Idaho.

Makes "No War" Pledge.

"No one realizes better than I, who was for five years his colleague, that no man can fill the vacancy resulting from Borah's untimely death," said Thomas, former Idaho state republican chairman and one-time national republican committeeman from this state.

Thomas said he would "pledge" himself to a determination oft expressed by Borah "to keep our nation out of war."

Thomas was born at Prairieview, Kas. He was a country school teacher there and later served as registrar of the United States land office at Colby, Kas., before coming to Idaho in 1909.

He is a graduate of Kansas State normal.

D., and William, Jake, and Louie Genzlinger, all of Burr; and five sisters, Mrs. Mary Holscher and Mrs. Kate Schreiner, both of Syracuse, Mrs. Barbara Seele of Sterling, Mrs. Lena Watermeier of Rapid City, and Mrs. William Tilla of Burr.

Randolph Stores Are Badly Damaged By Fire

RANDOLPH, Neb., Jan. 27—(AP)—Fire starting in the connected back rooms about noon destroyed Bermel's grocery store and Joe Brown's shoe store Friday. Firemen battled the blaze in near zero weather for two hours.

Exact origin of the fire was unknown. The grocery store, first used as a saloon, was built in 1887. The shoe store was built on an old livery stable site in 1888. It was used first as a bowling alley. Damage estimates were not available.

"Q" Station Operator At Seward Hurt In Fall

Sen. Norris To Boost Wheeler For President

. . . IF NOMINATED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27—(AP)—Senator Norris of Nebraska, independent ally of President Roosevelt, said Saturday that he would support Senator Wheeler (D-Mont) for the presidency if Wheeler obtained the democratic nomination.

The 78-year-old Nebraskan, congressional father of the New Deal's power development in the Tennessee valley, has advocated a third term for Mr. Roosevelt repeatedly. He told reporters today:

"If Roosevelt is not the democratic candidate and Wheeler is, I will support Wheeler. I think he has made a wonderful record in the senate and is fully qualified to be president."

Norris declined to elaborate. He has long been friendly with Wheeler, and intimates said he had sought to patch up differences between his colleague and President Roosevelt.

Wheeler and the president fell out when the Montanan led the successful fight against the chief executive's court reorganization bill in 1937. Since then, Wheeler has opposed several important administration measures, including the government reorganization and neutrality revision bills. He was a caller at the white house this week, however, and associates reported Mr. Roosevelt received him cordially. At the invitation of John L. Lewis, Wheeler spoke before the United Mine Workers' convention in Columbus, O., Friday but did not refer to his potential candidacy for the presidency. Instead, he said he was a candidate for reelection to the senate.

GOTHENBURG, Neb., Jan 27—(AP) — William Ruddock, about 77, one of the few remaining settlers of this vicinity, was killed instantly Friday afternoon when he was struck by an eastbound Union Pacific passenger train near his home.

Optimism, Pessimism Both Bunk Dr. Patterson Advises 150 H-Y Boys Here For Interstate Meet

Hi-Y boys of Nebraska and northern Kansas, numbering 150, opened their district conference Friday evening with a dinner and program at the Y. M. C. A.

With the conference theme, "Youth to Match Our Day," as his subject, Dr. Charles H. Patterson of the University of Nebraska philosophy department gave the boys a few pointers on sane living.

Both optimism and pessimism are "bunk," Dr. Patterson declared. The optimism that says "The world is waiting for you—it's all yours for the asking" is pure fallacy—the world waits for no one; and the pessimism that says the world is headed for disaster and nothing is worth fighting for is likewise nonsense, the educator pointed out.

A middle-of-the-road attitude, with religion and intelligent planning for support, is by far the best, he advised. One should discipline his desires and conduct, and above all maintain a steady morale, he added.

Play Presented.

A play, presented by the Lincoln Hi-Y club, was based on the founding of Hi-Y fifty years ago at Chapman, Kas. Bob Pralle coached the play. The cast included Bob Miller, Norman Spurlock, Milford Epp, Jim Hawkins, Don Rickey, Dale Babcock, Wayne Kingery, Alvin Paulski, and Don Dobry.

James Berryman, president of the Fullerton Hi-Y, presided at the banquet. Henry Grim, secretary of the Lincoln Y. M. C. A. welcomed the boys and A. W. Mason introduced the various delegations.

The first delegates to arrive Friday morning were George Andress and Frank Spencer of Alliance. Two Kansas clubs, Blue Rapids and Marysville, have delegations at the conference.

Music Friday night was furnished by Jack Young and Mary Ann Hedstrom. Charles Putney led group singing, with Bill Kiewitt accompanying.

Unethical Convention Seeking By Nebraska Cities Rapped By Krusz

Lincoln Man Asks State Secretaries To Adopt "Code Of Ethics"

GRAND ISLAND, Neb., Jan. 27—(AP)—Members of the Nebraska Association of Commercial Organization secretaries considered two proposals at their annual meeting here Saturday—one urging chambers of commerce to adopt a "code of ethics" in convention-getting, and the other advocating an advertising campaign for Nebraska and its products.

Harry Krusz, Lincoln chamber of commerce manager, urged the code to eliminate abuses he said arise from chambers of commerce enticing organizations to hold conventions in their cities. He accused some chambers of offering cash "bribes," furnishing free meeting places, meals and entertainment to obtain large conventions.

Many organizations, he added, openly "shop" for their convention city, taking the best offer. Women's groups are the "worst beggars," he declared.

Hear Neville.

Keith Neville, North Platte, democratic gubernatorial candidate, advocated a state advertising campaign embracing "a judicious expenditure of a small amount of money."

Kansas wheat and Idaho potatoes, he said, drew premiums over Nebraska products because of an advertising program. Such a program in Nebraska, he said, should promote sale of its products, tourist traffic, encourage existing industries and promote new types of industry in which processing of farm products is an important factor.

Sutton Boy, 6, Killed By Truck

Werner Lorenzen Dies Instantly When Runs Into Path Transport

SUTTON, Neb., Jan. 27—(AP)—Werner Lorenzen, six, was killed instantly late Friday when he ran into the side of a Wise gasoline transport truck from Grand Island, driven, authorities said, by Ben Wood.

The boy ran from behind another truck into the transport and was thrown under its wheels. Wood was absolved of any blame by authorities who investigated.

The boy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Lorenzen, moved here recently from South Dakota.

Paul F. Good, trustee for the Gage County Electric company undergoing reorganization under the Chandler act, filed an audit of the business for the past six months, showing an operating surplus before interest and depreciation of $9,393.93. After deduction of interest at 10 per cent on both first and second mortgage bonds, the company statement showed a loss of $7,967.76.

Hearing on the proposed plan for reorganization, and the amendments and objections to it, has been put forward to Mar. 7 by Federal court.

OTTO E. SKOLD DIES BENEATH TRAIN WHEELS

. . . AT ADAMS, NEB.

Lincoln Lumberman Was Prominent In Business And As N.U.Student

Otto E. Skold, 37, prominent Lincoln lumber and coal dealer, died under the wheels of a Burlington train at Adams, Neb., at 4:45 p. m. Friday. His home was at 1645 South Twentieth street.

Otto Skold

Sheriff Ben A. Goble, Beatrice, said an eye witness, George Podburg, told him that Skold walked along the tracks and threw himself beneath a freight car toward the back of the train. Podburg is a Burlington section hand.

S. C. Savage, the station agent, found Skold's body about 100 yards west of the depot, not near a grade crossing.

Savage said Skold came to Adams about once a week on business of a lumber company there. He had parked his car at the lumber yard, on the same side of the tracks as that on which Podburg saw him walking.

The train crew did not know of the act until notified in Lincoln. The members of the crew said none of them noticed Skold walking along the right-of-way nor did they see evidences of an accident.

The body was taken to an Adams mortuary, where members of the family from Lincoln went immediately, and was removed to Lincoln later Friday night.

Leonard Skold, a brother and business associate, said he could think of no motive for the act.

It was reported that Skold had left his office shortly before noon, Friday, going to his home for lunch. He was reported in good spirits at that time. He did not return to the office during the afternoon.

Skold was born in Lincoln and had lived here all of his life. He was a graduate of Lincoln high school and the University of Nebraska where he was active in student affairs. He was a member of the Innocents society and Alpha Sigma Phi.

Mr. Skold was a member of the Junior chamber of commerce and the Lincoln Retail Credit association. He was also on the Alpha Phi alumni board.

Mr. Skold belonged to the St. Paul Methodist church where he served as an usher and was on the board of trustees. He had been associated with the Independent Lumber and Coal company since his graduation from the university in 1926.

Surviving are his wife, Lillian; a small son, John Otto; two brothers, Leonard of Lincoln, and Richard of Seward; and mother, Mrs. Nettie Skold.

Scion Of Wealthy Omaha Family Who Preferred Farming To Life In City, Seeks Legislative Post

LAPLATTE, Neb., Jan. 26—(AP)—A 31-year-old Harvard man, who grew a beard because shaving was such a nuisance, hopes to leave his farm just a little while for a fling at politics.

David N. Crofoot, scion of a wealthy Omaha family, announced Friday he would seek a seat in Nebraska's unicameral legislature, but he wants to make politics a sideline, keep farming as a vocation.

He will run for the senate from Sarpy and Cass counties, the Third district.

Partly because his health wasn't good, partly because he didn't like the city, Crofoot and his junior league wife, the former Catherine Becker of Dubuue, Ia., bought a 120-acre farm in 1931. The young man knew nothing about farming, but a university short course, reading myriad books and much help from the neighbors taught him how to make a living.

He is building up a dairy herd, raises pigs and keeps 400 chickens. Mrs. Crofoot kills and dresses the chickens they sell.

Crofoot, who is treasurer of the local farm bureau federation, said he wanted to get into politics for some time, but he was afraid his fellow farmers might regard him as a city boy playing farmer. Now he thinks he's proved himself a regular farmer.

He hopes the legislature might be a stepping stone to something further, but he declines to say what.

His beard made its first appearance during a frontier days celebration, but he got to like it and, after shaving it off, let it grow again.

"My brother told me the voters might think I was screwy with this beard," he said, "but as I wear it, it would be sailing under false pretenses if I shaved it off for the campaign."

So if the voters take him, it will have to be beard and all.

Officers of the Bursary were re-elected Friday night at the annual meeting in the home office here. Louis Willie is president, B. H. Wunderlich, vice president, and William Arth, secretary-treasurer. Ira D. Beynon is counsel, and J. T. Jones was elected a director. He with the executive officers compose the board of directors.

Secretary Arth said the reports of the officers showed a gain in business during 1939. Prospects for 1940 are encouraging, he added.

Defer Hearing On Truck Rates

. . . On Omaha's Motion

On motion of the Omaha chamber of commerce, speaking in behalf of shippers, the state railway commission Saturday continued from Feb. 5 to March 4 the hearing set on the application of the Nebraska Commercial Truckers' association to discard the air-line mileage rate basis system.

The commission announced that Omaha chamber representatives protested abolishment of the air-line basis would increase Nebraska truck rates and prove advantageous to out of state shippers, particularly those in Sioux City, St. Joseph and Atchison, Kas.

Want More Time.

Omaha chamber spokesmen also explained they wished time to hold conferences with out state shippers and with association representatives in an effort to reach agreement on various rate changes before coming before the commission with a substitute application.

In asking for a revision of the present air-line mileage and rate basis, the truckers' association explained the system setup in Nebraska three years ago is out of line with the interstate rate scale. Nebraska is the only state which has an air-line mileage base. The association asked that actual highway miles be used to compute distance changes.

Other commission business:

Received an application from the Iowa-Nebraska Light and Power company to build a short transmission line in Lancaster county.

Received request from the Burt county rural public power district to add 68 miles of line to its system.

Received request from the Polk county rural public power district to add 44 miles of line to its system in York and Polk counties.

Twenty-One Years In Exile

THE Emperor Napoleon was less than six years in exile at St. Helena after the crash of his military fortunes, his abdication of the throne of France, and his attempt to put Europe under his heel. Napoleon could not take it in loneliness. The great soldier who had commanded vast armies and who as a civil administrator of marked ability, had become accustomed to the servility of his court, ate his heart out at St. Helena and fell victim to disease. Magnificently the artist caught the spirit of Napoleon's desolation in picturing his exile.

* * *

THAT was a strange story of an old man, which came out of Doorn Saturday, where the former German Kaiser, Wilhelm, celebrated his eighty-first birthday. His country again is at war. Its enemies are the same two countries against which Germany fought when Wilhelm was in command as the ruler of the German people. Twenty-two of his grandsons are serving in the German army, and one is a victim of battle, killed in action in the campaign to subjugate Poland. The press dispatches said all of the letters, and the flowers, reaching the former Kaiser's modest castle on his Doorn retreat could not blot out the great loneliness which depressed his spirits, and weighed heavily upon him.

* * *

THE marvel is that through these years, stripped of the glory which was his, the right to command his remarkably efficient armies, the right to mold the thought and the affairs of the German people, Wilhelm has been able to go on without apparent great bitterness or dejection. He has been twenty-one years in exile, beginning when he had attained the age of sixty at the height of both his physical and his mental powers. Those twenty-one years have made a greater man out of the Kaiser than the sixty which preceded them. He has lost little if any of his ardent belief in Germany and in the people of German blood. His feeling towards Adolf Hitler is one of mixed emotions. For Hitler's achievement in uniting and solidifying the German people into a compact, racially conscious group he has only the strongest admiration and pride. Towards Hitler he holds only one reservation, and that arises from Hitler's failure to copy Mussolini's pattern, and to restore the royal family of Germany to its place as the royal family of Italy nominally continues to be the head of the Italian people.

* * *

THOSE years at Doorn have taught the former Kaiser some cruel lessons. Not long ago he was quoted by a correspondent who visited him as saying it was not meant any man or any nation should rule the world. He looked upon war with the deepest misgiving. At Doorn with its quiet, with few visitors, with its stark simplicity, with the routine which calls for chopping trees for exercise, walks around the wooded estate, extensive reading, and almost complete ostracism from the world itself Wilhelm came to see the futility of war.

* * *

PROBABLY Napoleon did at St. Helena. Probably Caesar, Alexander, the whole lot of them, did before their time ran. Which, in connection with the gloomy prophecy civilization is facing extinction in this present conflict, brings assurance nothing of that kind is going to happen despite the temporary apprehensions of people. It was not meant that any one man or any one nation should rule the world. It was not intended that the Germans, the British, the French, or the American people should become masters of all the civilized, or semi-civilized regions of the globe. There never has been any illusion in the United States about that. In modern times the American people embraced the philosophy of the ancient Chinese, and asked only to be permitted to live in peace and security within the borders of their own country.

* * *

AT TIMES the provocation has been so great; at other times the temptation has been so alluring. In recent years the economic pressure arising from vast unemployed groups, from business and industrial stagnation, from punishing financial losses, and from the exhaustion of land resources, the temptation to pick upon weaker and undeveloped countries in other quarters easily could have implanted a spirit of conquest among the American people. That it has not—indicates such temptation has been resisted— that today as yesterday the intentions towards others are as peaceful as in the beginning.

* * *

SOME individuals and some nations voluntarily impose exile on themselves; others have it imposed upon them. The American people with the notable exception of seizing Indian lands, and acquiring territory in a war with Mexico, throughout the entire course of national history have imposed exile upon themselves. After twenty-one years the former Kaiser understands that, and although it leaves him lonely at the end of his life, lonely for human companionship, lonely for the great authority which he possessed over his army and over the German people, lonely for his great estates and his magnificent castles, there is also a note of acceptance and of conciliation that reveals the extent to which Wilhelm has given himself in deliberating upon the affairs of men, and of nations.

* * *

THAT in itself produces loneliness. For among the people in all countries, regardless of race, of tradition, of ambition, and of the form of government under which they live, the hopes persist for happiness. They seek happiness not only for themselves but for others who may not speak the same language or observe the same customs. And that is why civilization perpetuates itself. Without that hope, based upon a recognition that happiness is not the heritage solely of one country or one people, there can be no permanent civilization. So they struggle for it with different tools, different methods, and different ideologies. When men arise in their ambitions to impose themselves upon others their lives are brief, and once again the pattern resumes its former shape. Wilhelm lived for years under an imposed exile, when a self-imposed exile might have permitted him to live those same years in different fashion.

Changing Times

ON FEBRUARY 1, the demolition of the Kresge building will begin and many an old timer will pause to recall with fondness the joys and sorrows experienced on that spot.

For that location was one of the centers of the town for many a year.

Back in the '70s, the upper floors housed the Hallo Opera House, one of the first theaters in Lincoln. In those days the theater was graced by such notable names as Modjeska, Louis Barrett, Maurice Barrymore, Janauschek, Joseph Jefferson, James O'Neill, Frederick Warde, Henry E. Dixey, and countless other immortals.

Old timers will recall that memorable night in '75 when Kate Claxton and her company were playing "The Two Orphans" and a fire broke out in the hall. Kate and her company were not novices at fires having participated in many a conflagration, but Lincoln theater-goers were. Quite a commotion, to say the least, resulted and everyone availed themselves of the exits. The Hallo burned to the ground.

The Hallo became the Centennial and then the Funke Opera House in 1884. Then came the gala opening night of the Funke and many people still living recall that night when "The Pavements of Paris" inaugurated a new phase of Lincoln dramatic history.

The Funke theater closed its doors forever in 1902, but not before it introduced to Lincoln people a new "baby," which has grown to giant proportions. In 1902, W. W. Bittner and his company brought along two reels of film and the first motion pictures were shown in the Funke theater. The reels showed the passing of a train and the run of a New York fire company.

After the Oliver theater (now the Liberty) opened, the Funke was having difficulty remaining in existence. For a while, the Funke and Oliver were both being managed by Frank C. Zehrung, and the Oliver carried the star attractions and the Funke was used for stock companies. The distinction was resented and soon the Funke closed its doors to become a business and store building.

And now, the building will soon be torn down.

The Hallo-Centennial-Funke ghosts will linger about that corner for some time yet for the old timers who remember the gay nights when a noted star was treading the boards, the gay mingling of Lincolnites on a frolic, the happy association with long-gone friends—all of these will remain for awhile in the minds and hearts of some.

And it is good.

For although progress demands that we remove buildings out-moded and outworn, still the memories can and should remain.

DIET AND HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D., Author of "The Human Body"

WEATHER PLAYS AN IMPORTANT PART IN CONTROLLING HEALTH

The weather this year is engaging the serious attention of more people than it has for 25 years. Every general staff of every army has to study weather and climatic conditions in order to keep large bodies of armed forces at the highest pitch of physical vigor.

Physical vigor is maintained best in temperate climates. There is no instance in history where troops from tropical regions or from arctic regions have beaten troops from temperate regions.

Our general energy level and physical tone are determined by the ease or difficulty with which heat is lost from the body. When the heat loss is difficult, as in tropical climates, internal combustion is slowed and available energy falls, and all the vital functions of the body are depressed. "Vital functions" include the intellectual processes of the general staff.

Extreme cold may promote harmful chilling by too rapid removal of body heat. This results in exhaustion of the body and a greater susceptibility to infection. When southerners migrate to temperate regions, their resistance ability to fight infection is much reduced over that of the native population. Pneumonia is more deadly in them and tuberculosis runs a more rapid course.

Respiratory Infections.

Shifting troops from tropical regions to temperate regions involves the incurrence of respiratory infections. Shifting troops from the north to the south involves a different kind of danger. According to mlitary medical authorities, it produces symptoms of insufficiency of the adrenal glands. The adrenal glands have to do with combustion and with the sympathetic nervous system. When the need for restricting combustion lowers the functional activity of the adrenal glands, it also affects the sympathetic nervous system and the circulation.

Shifting troops from the north to the south means a marked fall in blood pressure and hypertonicity of the digestive sysem.

Of course, the same general results that are observed in armies occur in the civil population. In cold weather movements are automatically more energetic in order to keep up warmth. The load on the heart is correspondingly greater; the blood pressure is a little higher, and there is more heart disease during the winter months.

Nature's Experiment.

During the very severe summer of 1934, in the middle west, Nature made an experiment of its own which was observed, and the observations show that the blood pressure fell about 30 per cent and there was a general relief from symptoms of heart disease.

Changeable temperatures and the pressure of storm zones produce a population badly afflicted with arthritis and chronic respiratory trouble—chronic bronchitis, sinus disease, etc.

For some curious reason, acute appendicitis is related to storm pathways, following almost the same curve as respiratory infection, and although the occurrence of acute appendicitis is highest in the colder climates. The fatality rate drops in those same regions.

Economic depressions during the past 60 years can be so charted as to show that they have been preceded by high temperatures and a lack of storms that bring about reduction in human energy.

These statements are not made without some scientific basis. Dr. C. A. Mills. professor of experimental medicine at the University of Cincinnati, has made these observations over a number of years. They can be found in the Military Surgeon for May, 1937.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

A Winter Meeting Of The Club

The bu... that we try to mind
Is just our own, you'll always find.
—Jimmy Skunk.

Now there was another face peering in through the cat hole

Nibbler the Mouse and Mrs. Nibbler were squeezing just as close together as they could in their home in the drawer of an old chest in Aunt Sally's woodhouse. Each could feel the other trembling. Yes, sir, each could feel the other trembling. The truth is they were both horrified and terrified. When they discovered the woodhouse and moved in, they had seen no one else. Then Nibbler had discovered that his big cousin, Robber the Rat, whom nobody likes because he is an outcast, was visiting that woodhouse. Still worse, he discovered a little later that Jimmy Skunk felt quite at home there. And now out there around that food pan in the middle of the floor in addition to Jimmy were four full-grown members of his family. The Nibblers had seen three come in through the cat hole, and then had fled. The fourth had entered while they were scampering for the safety of that drawer in the old chest.

When at last they stopped shaking, and their little hearts stopped pitter-patting, Mrs. Nibbler found her funny, squeaky, little voice. "There are too many Skunks! Isn't it dreadful," she squeaked.

Nibbler agreed. "I don't know what to make of it," said he. "I never saw so many Skunks before. Here it is the middle of winter, when those fellows are supposed to be asleep. At least that is what I've always heard. What were you so scared for?"

"I was no more scared than you were, so there! You ran just as fast as I did. And you shook just as hard as I did," squeaked Mrs. Nibbler. She was very indignant about it. Her voice was high-pitched. It was the squeakiest kind of a squeak.

Nibbler pretended not to hear. He had recovered from his fright. Little folks in fur and feathers often are like that. He wanted to see what was going on. It was curiosity. Of course. So presently Nibbler was once more peeping out from under the old chest.

"One, two, three, four, five, six." Could he have counted right? "One, two, three, four, five, six." Yes, he had counted right. There they were, six big Skunks around that pan of food in the middle of the floor. Nibbler's little eyes opened very wide. Never had he seen so many of these independent folk who dress in black and white. One was almost wholly white. Even as he watched another came in through the cat hole, and this one was all black but for the white tip of his tail.

Now there was another face peering in through the cat hole. It wore a mask. Yes, sir, there was a black mask across that face. Nibbler's dismay was doubled. That must be Bobby Coon. Nibbler had heard that a Coon likes a plump Mouse when he can catch one.

What were all these people of the Great Meadows and the Green Forest doing in this house? Nibbler couldn't understand it at all. They should be out of doors, not inside. And they should be asleep at this time of year. Nibbler was a puzzled little Mouse as well as a scared one.

Are you, too, wondering what it meant? Well, it was a winter meeting of Aunt Sally's Woodhouse Night Club. You see, Jimmy Skunk and his relatives do wake up every now and then through the winter and once in a great while Bobby Coon does the same thing. Because all of them knew that they would be sure to find something to eat in that woodhouse they had gone straight there. And it happened that Nibbler and Mrs. Nibbler, who knew nothing about that Night Club, had moved into Aunt Sally's woodhouse only a day or two before this winter meeting.

BLOOD RUNS COLD

By Ann Demarest

YESTERDAY: Lathrop's wife had an opportunity to murder Joan Kent while she was waiting for Lathrop to come out of the apartment house. Christine finds a note added to her list of questions telling her to keep out. Later the paper disappears.

Chapter 24.
EPISODE IN THE NIGHT.

The room seemed suddenly war mand oppressive. I couldn't take my eyes from Richard's thin, pale face. It was a very unpleasant sensation, the thought that he might be involved. But I kept forgetting the others in the house: Adrianne Wells alone in the front apartment; Mr. Kimball and Ishi in the shop; Whitefield in his room up on the third floor, and Mrs. Evans, with her long ears, in the attic.

Dirck was examining the board closely. "I wouldn't mention this to anyone," he cautioned us, looking up with grave eyes. "Someone is evidently trying to frighten you, Chris. It may be just a practical joke."

"I wish I thought so," I said with some asperity.

"What is this all about, anyway?" Richard looked at Dirck.

And briefly Dirck explained it to him. Then he turned to me. "Do me a favor, Chris. This might not do any good, but I'd like to experiment. Before you go to bed tonight make another list and tack it to the board, just as you did before. Tomorrow we may have another visit from this person. And try not to touch the board any more than you can help. There may be fingerprints."

"I hate to be used as bait," I said, but finally I agreed with some reluctance.

It gave me a queer feeling to have my apartment enlisted to lure a murderer. And it was evidently a person who kept a close watch on all of my moves. I'd been out of my room less than ten minutes to go down to the corner, and in that short time the paper was taken. With someone so watchful I dreaded spending another night alone in my apartment on the fire escape. My feelings must have been pretty obvious because Dirck smiled reassuringly.

"I wouldn't worry if I were you. I hardly think anything will happen tonight," he said, belying all of those previous emphatic warnings. "And I'm going to spend the night with Richard, if he'll let me."

He turned to Richard, who nodded.

"I you want anything, Chris, just tap on the steam pipe there in the corner three times. I'll hear it and tap back and be with you immediately."

"What about me?" Mary Ann asked in her high-pitched voice. "You don't seem to be thinking much about my safety."

Something closed back of Dirck's calm blue eyes. "I think you'll be safe," he said quietly. "And there are two of you in there."

The assurance that Dirck would be within call made me feel a little better. But after the men left with Mary Ann, who was pouting childishly over Dirck's remark, I locked the door securely this time, thinking what a futile gesture it was. Whoever got into my room before could doubtless manage it again even if the door were locked.

I undressed again, hoping that it would be the last time for one night. And then I sat down at the desk and tried to think up another list of questions. There was so much that I didn't understand; in fact everything and everyone mixed up in the murder seemed to have no rhyme nor reason, so I had a hard time getting my thoughts into any constructive shape.

Finally, after what seemed to be a long time, I scribbled down some questions:

Did the necklace used to strangle Joan Kent come from Tim Lathrop?

How did the street door happen to be unlocked at a quarter of eleven?

Are Adrianne Wells and Kincaid telling the truth about the quarrel in the hall?

Is there any ill feeling between Mr. Kimball and his sister?

And at the bottom of the sheet I wrote:

Who took my list of questions?

A Crash.

By the time I'd finished I was exhausted and ready to go to bed. The room was so hot that I had to open a window, and of course all of them stuck. I couldn't budge any, except the only one I didn't want to have open, and that was the one overlooking the fire escape. The fresh paint on the window casings seemed to act like cement. So, praying under my breath, I pushed the window up about a foot. The night was clear and not nearly as cold as earlier in the evening, and there was a moon lighting an apparently peaceful world.

A person's capacity for fear must be almost limitless. As I dozed off it seemed to me after all that had happened I must, by this time, be shock proof. The thought was comforting enough at least to allow me to drop off into a light sleep.

But my theory was blasted within an hour.

I awakened, for no reason apparently, except that I felt a tenseness in the air, the way it is in the summer before a thunderstorm. Lying there stiffly, I strained my eyes towards the fire escape.

And then came the crash that almost made my heart stop beating.

It sounded as though something heavy came hurtling through the open window and broke into a thousand pieces on the floor.

It must have been a couple of minutes before I pulled myself together enough to get out of bed. How I finally moved I'll never know. The sheets, when I pushed them back, seemed to crackle like paper in the hush that followed the crash. Groping across the cold floor on all-fours, I tapped on the pipe three times with the heel of one of my red leather mules. It sounded loud enough to wake the dead.

It did not come. There was no sound from the room above me.

Strangely enough my first reaction was not of fright. I clung feverishly to the idea that both of the men must be sound asleep. So I clutched the slipper again and banged this time even louder and more urgently.

I waited there in the dark, my hands pressed against the cold floor to steady myself. It seemed more like hours than seconds.

Still there was no answer from the third floor. There was nothing but an awful engulfing silence.

What had happened to Dirck and Richard?

Surely one of them would have wakened the second time if they hadn't heard me before.

The third time I rapped I knew, fearfully now, that it was useless.

Either there was no one up in that apartment or something had happened to them.

A Faint.

I tried to think what to do next and finally forced myself to crawl across the floor to the window.

On the small rug below the sill my hands closed on moist earth. Moist earth and sharp, jagged fragments of pottery.

Toby's large pot of geraniums, that I'd forgotten to take off the window sill before I went to bed, was broken. That was the noise I'd heard.

But how could it have happened? There wasn't a breath of air stirring, not even enough to move the curtains, and the jar was very heavy.

I was certain it couldn't possibly have blown off onto the floor.

Cautiously I got up and with my body wrapped in the chintz curtain I peered out of the window. For a moment, blinking in the dark, I couldn't see a thing.

After a moment there came a muffled sound from below. Fearfully, I strained my eyes downward and in the yard I saw two figures moving about and heard footsteps scraping on the cement walk. As I bent forward one figure seemed to look up towards my window and, in a muffled voice, called my name.

Afterwards all I could remember was that I recognized the voice so it must have been the great relief I felt that made me faint, much to my shame, for the first time in my life.

When I came to in a pool of mud and water and red geraniums, the lights were on and Dirck and Richard were kneeling beside me, pouring water all over my yellow pajamas and the remnants of the plant.

"Thank God, you're all right!" Dirck said in a choky voice. "Chris, I'll never forgive myself for frightening you so badly."

I couldn't even give him a reassuring answer. My voice was lost somewhere down in my chest.

He helped me crawl out of the debris. My pajamas were plastered to my skin, and with eyes averted he handed me my bathrobe. I tried to laugh and failed miserably. And when with Richard's help they finally got me into a chair and closed and locked the window, I managed to summon voice enough to ask what had happened.

They shook their heads, refusing to speak. Richard pulled a blanket off the couch and wrapped it around me, while Dirck mopped up the water and did a gentleman's best cleaning up the bits of broken pottery and geraniums.

"We'll talk later," Dirck said. "You're as white as a sheet. Have you any whiskey or brandy upstairs, Richard?"

Richard brightened. "A bottle of cognac. It wouldn't hurt any of us to have a drink."

"That's swell. Will you get it? We've got to get her back on her feet."

I looked down at my drenched pajamas. "You go, too, Dirck. I've got to climb out of these things or I'll mildew."

"Take it easy now, Miss Howarth," he smiled. "You've had a pretty bad shock."

Calling All Dogs

By ALBERT PAYSON TERHUNE

A Thankless Job

Several decades ago, here in New Jersey, announcement was made of John Smith's appointment as local dogcatcher. Said one neighbor to another:

"Why, John Smith is the meanest man in this town!"

"Sure he is," agreed the other. "That's how he landed such a job. No decent man would take it."

This is an exaggerated idea, perhaps. But there seems to be some foundation for it. Witness the following case:

Police Chief Paul E. Demers of Gardiner, Maine, was forced to add the job of dogcatcher ("dog-officer" was the term used) to his other official duties. He went before the town's selectmen and resigned his dog-officer position. He declared the task was a "miserable" one, and that he was often between a crossfire of indignant owners and fiercely biting stray dogs.

Solemnly the selectmen listened to his tale of woe and to his unalterable refusal to remain in that kind of doghouse any longer. With equal solemnity, they acknowledged his grievance was a just one, and they allowed him to resign.

On the other hand, many a "meanest man" makes good money by crafty juggling of his dogcatcher job, and is glad enough to hold such office. It depends on the man.

Omahan Reports On Work With Drug In Mental Treatment

The Journal of the American Medical Association for Jan. 27 contains a report by a Nebraskan, Dr. A. E. Bennett of Omaha, on work with the drug curare in treatment of mental cases.

Curare (Indian arrow-poison) is injected to relax muscles, prior to administration of metrazol to induce shock. He reports that fractures resulting from convulsions when shock is induced have been a major risk in the metrazol treatment. The convulsion is greatly lessened by the curare.

Dr. Bennett said in his report "Curare has not yet gained a definitely useful application in clinical medicine. One reason has been inability to obtain sufficient quantities of proved pure crude curare. Dr. A. R. McIntyre, professor of pharmacology at the University of Nebraska college of medicine is now carrying out biologic standardization experiments and a safe commercial preparation soon should be available."

AGAINST THE ODDS.

The fight worth winning is the one
That's made when hope seems wholly gone.
When safety-seekers run away,
It calls for courage rare to stay;
Against the heavy odds to stand
And gain the vict'ry single-hand!

When one has numbers on his side,
In triumph there is little pride;
When might removes the dangers grave,
The giant's never very brave.
At six to one on land or sea,
Paltry the conquest's bound to be.

Against the odds to stand and fight!
Alone to battle for the right!
Alone to brave the giant's will.
This calls for courage and for skill.
Only earth's bravest carry on
With odds against them six to one.

BRAIN TWIZZLERS

By Prof. J. D. Flint

Window Wonder.

In an artist's studio was a window eleven feet high and eleven feet across which provided very excellent light for the studio but annoyed the artist at times because it admitted too much light for the best effects in his work. Finally he called in a painter and asked him to paint exactly half of the window black to shut out some of the light. The painter was a very analytical and ingenious man so he gave the matter careful consideration and then painted half the window black. However, when the artist arrived the next day he stood at the window, and as he looked at it he discovered that the unpainted part was still eleven feet across. He marveled at the ingenuity of the painter. How had the painting been done?

HATRED WILL HOLD JAPAN AT BAY IN CHINA

BY JAMES R. YOUNG.
(International News Service Staff Correspondent.)

Japan's vital war strength is waning.

Driven from the coast ports, suffering the loss of all great cities, China's once admittedly wavering and sinking war spirit has been revived.

The campaign, now in its third winter, has developed in Chinese hearts and minds the deepest possible hatred of the Japanese army, an emotion which will not wear off during this generation. The long memories and the power of hate of the Chinese will hold Japan at bay indefinitely.

Has Only Poorest.

Japan is unable to subjugate China's manpower or economic wealth. She has driven the best Chinese into west China or the international concessions. She has only the poorest of the lot.

Foreign military observers believe Japan is using 60 per cent of her manpower to control and mop up unruly regions of supposedly occupied China. Her own puppet armies frequently turn and attack Japanese with their own equipment.

Early in the campaign, the Japanese destroyed and stripped factories, offices and homes. The ruination was nearly complete. Now they are striving under a changed policy to salvage the ruins and to make the Chinese cooperate.

I have interviewed half a hundred leading Chinese business men. Not one will cooperate with Japan in occupied or unoccupied areas.

Japanese Pessimistic.

Americans who recently arrived in Hongkong from Shantung reported the Japanese leaders were pessimistic, unable to maintain their bases except at great loss of life. Railroad wrecks and sabotage of Japanese equipment are increasingly common, they told this correspondent.

If Japan should cease military operations, and try to hold what she has China will not give the enemy rest or peace.

The military question is, to this correspondent, whether, rather than when, Japan can handle her occupied zones, especially those fare up the Yangtze. The final outcome depends on the maintenance of strength of the Japanese invaders against the new spirit and efficiency of Chinese armed forces recently shown in outmaneuvering the Japanese. Conditions in recent weeks favor the Chinese.

New China, its people and its army, is waiting for an opportunity to strike back at the Japanese. The will of China to keep the war going to the everlasting dismay of the Japanese may win the war for Chungking.

Look For Good Earnings In First Quarter Of This Year

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 27--(AP)—Executives of railroads and steel firms from coast to coast, hobnobbing at a gala banquet here, looked ahead to "good" earnings for the first quarter of 1940 and generally were optimistic about business prospects throughout the year.

A dozen presidents, among 1,800 industrial officials at a Pittsburgh Traffic club dinner last night, aired their opinions.

Guest Speaker Thomas L. Parkinson, president of the Equitable Life Assurance socitey, struck at "government regulation of industry," declaring the government should be "not the master, not the boss—but should fall in line behind business where it belongs, and follow it." Parkinson interpolated that he considered himself a "good democrat."

Confidence Stressed.

Toastmaster J. L. Perry, president of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corp., averred that "all we need is confidence. Confidence would lead us to a reasonable prosperity so we wouldn't have to depend on wars, which we deplore."

Patrick H. Joyce, trustee of the Chicago & Great Western railroad, remarked that "Lewis' statement makes us very happy and fills us full of hope."

(CIO Chief John L. Lewis told the United Mine Workers convention at Columbus, O., that a third term attempt by President Roosevelt would result in "ignominious" defeat.)

G. A. Blackmore, president of the Westinghouse Air Brake Co., felt that business is "bound to be good and better, particularly if we can avoid active combat in war —which we can and will."

Omaha And St. Louis Poor Left $16,000 In Estate of Nebraskan

OMAHA, Jan. 27—(AP)—St. Louis and Omaha poor may receive the bulk of the more than $16,000 estate of Rudolph E. Frey, 83, found dead in his gas filled home here Jan. 20.

Although Frey was believed to have been in meager circumstances, his will, filed Friday, indicated a sizeable estate. After minor bequests to relatives, it provided the balance should be divided between Mayor Dan Butler of Omaha and Mayor D. F. Dickman of St. Louis "to be used by them for such purposes as shall best serve the needs of the poor in their respective cities."

Prof. Simmering Of Colorado U., Former Nebraskan, Is Dead

He formerly taught at Pennsylvania State college, Kansas State college and the University of Illinois experiment station.

Funeral services will be held Saturday in Boulder, with burial at Hastings, Neb., his birthplace.

Stock Market Price Variations Are Meaningless

Offerings Light On N. Y. Exchange

NEW YORK, Jan. 27—(AP)—Stock market traders again held to the maxim "let well enough alone" today and, aside from quiet strength in aircrafts and specialties, price variations throughout the list were meaningless.

Had it not been for the liveliness of a handful of issues selling under $5, the two-hours' volume would have been a mere dribble. As it was, transfers approximated 300,000 shares. Analysts studied the news without deriving much bullish inspiration. Lightness of offerings, though, tended to cheer those who contend important commitments on the long side are still intact and that whenever any real activity has cropped up it usually has been on a rising trend.

The question of just how far the recessionary curve in a number of business and industrial lines would go once more was put forward as a prime purchasing handicap. In addition, Wall street's apparent inability to determine which way the national political winds are blowing remained as a retarding speculative influence.

Bonds and commodities were sluggish and slightly uneven.

Among stocks, Commonwealth and United Corp. turned over in blocks of 10,000 and 12,600 shares at 1⅛ and 2¼, respectively. Continental Motors started with a trade of 10,000 shares at 4⅛, up ⅛.

Dow Chemical, Loft and Trans-Continental & Western Air touched new 1939-40 highs. Supported also were Douglas Aircraft, Glenn Martin, Lockheed, Bendix, Sperry, Bethlehem Steel, Santa Fe and New York Central.

Preferreds of Standard Gas tilted upword while those of American Power & Light weakened.

A share behind most of the time were Chrysler, Montgomery Ward, North American, International Nickel, Standard Oil of New Jersey and Goodyear.

Despite Bethlehem's 10-year record earnings in the last quarter, steels faced forecasts of another dip in mill operations next week as well as dwindling inquiries.

Aviations were propped by new talk of pending heavy orders from the bullish and French for warplanes.

Helping sentiment were hopeful opinions expressed by rail and steel executives meeting at Pittsburgh. The majority looked for good earnings in the fist quarter for the transportation and steel industries and were optimistic for prospects over the balance of the year.

Chicago Wheat Steady, Higher

CHICAGO, Ill., Jan. 27—(AP)—May wheat, the only contract now quoted actively on the board of trade which could be satisfied by delivery of 1939 crop grain only, led a rally in wheat prices today after the market had fluctuated nervously most of the session.

The advance amounted to about a cent but July and September contracts, on which 1940 wheat can be delivered, lagged behind.

Some purchasing of wheat was credited to milling interests but trade was restricted due to lagging domestic demand and export trade as well as uncertainty over the crop situation and disposal of 1939 wheat under loan.

Wheat closed unchanged to ¾ cent higher compared with yesterday's finish, May 99⅛@99c, July 96⅜@½c; corn unchanged to ¼ cent up, May 57¼@⅜c, July 57¼c; oats ⅛ to ¼ cent higher.

Following the pattern of recent sessions, wheat prices varied above and below previous closing levels today, fluctuating nervously over a range of about a cent and showing no signs of taking a definite trend.

Prices dipped about ½ cent and then rallied as much as ⅞ cent mostly as a result of short covering.

Circumstances creating this unsettled trade, pit brokers said, remained unchanged although there was some clarification of the loan wheat situation. Uncertainty as to the benefit, if any, received by the new winter wheat crop from recent moisture or the harm, if any, done by cold weather was not expected to be cleared up until growing weather in March. The outlook was for slowly rising temperatures over most of the belt, with possibly some precipitation the middle of next week.

Washington reports placed the correct tabulation of the amount of wheat held under government loans as of January 19 at 153,242,660 bushels. This indicated 7,802,883 bushels had been redeemed since the first of the year. The tariff commission was reported to have ordered extension of the investigation of possible wheat imports into this country.

Export business was quiet although there were trade rumors that Russia may buy some Pacific coast white wheat for shipment to Vladivostok as a result of refusal of Canada to permit sale of Canadian grain for this purpose.

Prices of other grains showed very little change but had a firm undertone. The first official estimate of Argentine corn acreage was 17,795,000 acres, or 4,700,000 more than planted last year and second largest area seeded in a number of years.

Lard prices were slightly lower.

New York Sugar

NEW YORK, Jan. 27—(AP)—SUGAR—Week-end profit taking and speculative liquidation erased early advances in sugar futures today.

Domestic contracts declined when initial trade covering and European buying attracted fairly liberal offerings through operator and commission house sources.

The world list met some European and Wall street liquidation which outweighed Cuban producer covering against sales of raws.

The raw market was quiet with offerings somewhat restricted. Cubas were available at 2.90 cents duty paid.

Refined remained at 4.50 cents.

NEW YORK BOND REVIEW

NEW YORK, Jan. 27—(AP)—The majority of rail loans were trimmed in a narrowly uneven bond market today. Losses were limited largely to fractions. The daily appearance of carrier reports showing revenue gains over a year ago, had induced buying earlier in the week.

In the minus column when the short session was well into the last hour were such issues as Missouri-Kansas-Texas 5s of '62, Frisco 4½s of '78, Erie 5s of '75 and Santa Fe 4s of '95.

Industrial and utility loans wobbled uncertainly. One of the widest losers was Portland General Electric 4½s, off 1 point or so, but volume was slim. A bit higher were Shell Union 2½s, International Hydro Electric 6s and Pacific Telephone 3¼s of '66 "B."

U. S. treasury loans idled in a narrowly higher range.

A 1½-point advance in Milan 6½s enlivened a sluggish foreign dollar loan market.

NEW YORK, Jan. 27—(AP)—COTTON—Futures recovered early losses in moderately active trading today and finished 1 point lower to 4 higher.

Lower Bombay and Alexandria markets again accounted for foreign liquidation early but this diminished shortly after the call. Prices rallied as buying by cooperatives and trade interests found limited offerings.

At one time the list was up as much as 6 points but realizing in the final minutes of trading pared gains.

Consolidated deposits at the end of December were $421,483,431 compared to $384,739,131 at the end of 1938.

City Of Flint Ends Strange Odyssey

The freighter City of Flint, shown plowing up Chesapeake bay toward Baltimore, entered U. S. waters for the first time since she sailed from New York Oct. 3 and ran into a series of wartime adventures during which she was captured by Germany and held in Murmansk, Russia.

BALTIMORE, Jan. 27—(AP)—The freighter City of Flint, rusty and ice-flecked, pulled into an American anchorage for the first time in four months today, writing finis to its strange Odyssey of international adventure.

From the lips of the 4,953-ton ship's skipper, Capt. Joseph A. Gainard, and from his crew of 41 came again the story of the Flint's capture by a German man-o'-war, an enforced voyage with a German prize crew of 18 to Murmansk, Russia, and finally release off the coast of Norway.

"The Germans were probably running short of food," Gainard said, for they showed interest in flour on the Flint. Thirty-eight British seamen from the sunken freighter Stonegate were brought aboard with the prize crew. The British were released at Tramsoe, Norway.

"There was no motion picture stuff about it," Gainard continued. "The Germans came aboard without fuss. With the German leader I plotted a course for Germany. Meanwhile we got the works from the stormy weather. We put in at Tramsoe, Norway. There we learned five ships had been sunk that night and many belligerent warships were nearby, so we went to Murmansk."

Denied Use of Communications.

They were denied use of communications to contact United States officials. The Russians took their papers away and did not return them for five days.

In Murmansk they saw the liners Bremen, the New York, St. Louis, and Hamburg.

Green Criticized For Taking Huge Cake To F. D. R.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 27—(AP)—John L. Lewis, declining to commit himself on a presidential candidate, declared today:

"The important question is not who will be the presidential candidate, but what the democratic party proposes to do for the country."

He told a press conference that labor had pointed out a program, and that it was up to the democratic party to accept or reject it.

The leader of the United Mine Workers of America, in convention here, criticized William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, for taking a huge cake to President Roosevelt.

"While the people of the country were crying for an increased quantity of bread," Lewis remarked, "Mr. Green hires a truck to take a cake to the president."

KENNETH ALLEN IS GIVEN 1 TO 2 YEARS FOR CAR BREAK-IN

The complaint alleged that on Dec. 25, 1939, he broke into a car owned by Arnold Reed with the intent to steal. Young Allen admitted having been before juvenile court authorities in the past.

MARRIED BROTHER

Virginia Wolfe Williamson (above) 18, told her 20-day marriage to her own brother never existed before the law, is back home with her parents in Indianapolis, awaiting the birth of a baby. A court told her that evidence showed she and Leroy Williamson, 20, whom she wed Jan. 6, had the same mother and probably the same father.

Autos Not Exempt From General Lien For Personal Tax

"Decidedly pleasing" to city finance department officials Saturday was the opinion Friday of Walter R. Johnson, state's attorney general, that "even though the tax be paid on a motor vehicle, it is still liable to the general lien on all personal property of the unpaid personal tax provided by the statute." It has been the hope of city officials that the attorney general would hand down just that sort of an opinion, Finance Director Theo Berg declared.

In his opinion, Attorney General Johnson said, "The provision of the law for the separate assessment of motor vehicles and that taxes on the same should be paid prior to registration was, of course, a safeguard to prevent that type of property escaping taxation. It would not justly follow, however, that even though the taxes be paid on this particular property, that it would be relieved of the burden of a lien upon all personal property for the unpaid personal taxes."

The attorney general's ruling will make the city's delinquent personal tax problem much easier of solution, Director Berg stated. It will be responsible for many who are not now paying personal taxes, doing so to prevent the treasurer's office levying against automobiles to collect it.

Unity Suffers From Two Bullet Wounds; One Injures Brain

LONDON, Jan. 27 — (AP) — Unity Freeman-Mitford, British friend of Adolf Hitler, today was disclosed to be in Radcliffe infirmary at Oxford and was reported suffering from two bullet wounds in the head, one of which had injured her brain.

Doctors were said to have been amazed that she had been able to complete the journey from Munich, Germany, to England. She arrived at the home of her father, Lord Redesdale, Jan. 4.

Previous reports indicated she had suffered one bullet wound in a mysterious shooting at Munich shortly after the war started.

State Ships 6,015 Carloads of Potatoes

. . . Double Last Year's

Potato shipments from Nebraska this season are double those of last, A. E. Anderson, state and federal crop statistician, reported Saturday.

Up to Jan. 20 a total of 6,015 cars were moved compared with 3,004 to the same date in 1939. The total shipment of the 1938 crop was 4,970 cars, or about 1,000 under the mark already reached for 1939.

"Most of these shipments," Anderson said, "are coming from the irrigated section of the North Platte valley. Some of the dry land potatoes were fair to good while other dry land areas had practically a complete failure."

Spring Wheat Growth Depends On Moisture In Soil At Planting Time

A new study indicating that over a long period of time spring wheat yields in the great plains area can be roughly predicted from the depth of soil moisture at seeding time has been received by agricultural college agronomists.

The study, based on records from 1907 to 1938, was made by John S. Cole and O. R. Mathews of the United States bureau of plant industry. They found that when the soil was wet to a depth of one foot or less at seeding time, the average yield was 6.5 bushels per acre; two feet of moisture resulted in an average 11.9 bushels; and if the moisture went down three feet or more the yield increased to 18.2. The authors point out, however, that their averages are true only over a long period of time and that rain or snow after seeding might affect the yield in any particular year.

BARNELL UNHURT AS CAR BREAKS TRAFFIC SIGNAL, 33RD AND O

Otto L. Barnell, 34, 5234 Lexington avenue, escaped injury when the car he was driving crashed into a pole at Thirty-third and O streets late Friday night, causing the traffic signal to crash to the paving. Officers said the impact broke off the supporting pole at the southeast corner of the intersection.

Barnell told officers he was driving east on O street at about 30 miles an hour when the signal suddenly changed. The machine skidded in the icy ruts, he said, resulting in the crash. No one was riding with Barnell at the time. He was booked on a careless driving charge.

Nebraska Faces Foe With Pair of Aces Most Likely to Be Riding the Bench.

By DON KELLOGG.

WITH Don Fitz a definite spectator and Harry Pitcaithley's playing condition still very much in doubt, Nebraska's basketball stock was at a new all-time low for the Big Six clash with the high-scoring Oklahoma Sooners at the coliseum tonight.

Troublous Evening Ahead.

Coach Bruce Drake's Sooners, very impressive in their last two starts—if you call scoring 50 points or better as making a dent in anything—are likely to prove a troublesome lot. It's the same under any other conditions — you generally fight trouble with trouble and match height with height, but what if you haven't any trouble - shooters or even any shooters at all?

DON FITZ

That's Coach W. H. Browne's problem right now. With his two top performers out of the fray, on whom can he depend to carry thrhough? Fitz sparked the team when he was in there—Pitcaithley led the charges when Fitz was absent.

Same Old Winter.

Unless some unexpected human dynamo turns up on the coliseum hardwoods tonight, it's liable to be a continuance of the long, hard winter. But regardless of the injury jinx, the Huskers may suddenly bounce to life. They're playing on their home court and the Scarlet hasn't performed before a local gathering for three consecutive games.

Coach Browne indicated that Hartmann Goetze, sophomore from St. Joseph, Mo., probably would get the call in Pitcaithley's place. Frank Tallman, who of late has been colder than the frosty lock on the barn door, will start the contest at the other forward post.

Sooners Worth Watching.

Al Randall, fresh from a scoring absence in the Kansas tilt, will hold down the pivot position, while Sid Held and Bob Therien are expected to trot to the guard stalls as the contest gets under way.

Sharp-shooting Jimmy McNatt and Captain Marvin Mesch will be the boys to watch from Soonerland. The pair combined their efforts in the Iowa State tilt to change the scoreboard reading on 31 occasions. Mesch came up from his back-court position to grab off the high scoring honors with 17 skippers.

Probable Lineups.

Plainsmen Conquer Nebraska 'Nubbins.'

Paced by a sub forward, Wilmer Woltemath, Nebraska Wesleyan handed the Nebraska "B" quintet a 46 to 28 setback on Wesleyan floor Friday night. Phi Tau Delta fraternity knocked off the Wesleyan second team, 30 to 15, in the preliminary.

The Nubbins were in the lead but twice during the contest. Garey's free throw opened the game, and Schultz's bucket put them ahead 8 to 6 at thhe quarter.

Wesleyan Takes Lead.

Waltemath's fielder tied it to open the second period. Hunt's basket then put the Plainmen in front and they were never headed again.

The score was 19 to 13 at the half, and 32 to 24 going into the stretch as Woltemath cashed in on a deadly scoring eye in the third.

Woltemath with 16 points was high for Wesleyan, while Elb Souders came next with 11. Charley Vacanti and Les Livingston tied for high honors for Nebraska "B," as each made six. Garey played a good floor game. The score:

BIG 10 REPLIES TO TRADUCERS

Michigan Man Gets Back At Charges Emanating From Chicago.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Jan. 27—(AP)—Vigorously defending the "honesty" of the Big Ten conference, Prof. Ralph W. Aigler of the University of Michigan today attacked suggestions that Chicago U. abandoned football because of the circuit's attitude toward subsidizing athletes.

Michigan Man Says It.

Prof. Aigler, Michigan's Big Ten faculty representative and chairman of the Wolverine athletic board, asserted in the board's annual report that "much of the observation along this line" was based on "supposed pronouncements of some mysterious spokesman" for Chicago.

"As to this," he said, "it will suffice to say that not once over a period of many years of association has any duly accredited representattive of the University of Chicago raised any more questions regarding the "honesty" in athletic administration than the representative of the University of institution.

All In One Boat.

"Let there be no mistake about this: Student aids in the form of scholarships, loans and campus employment have been administered at the University of Chicago under precisely the same rules and regulations under which the other nine member institutions have operated.

Prof. Aigler pointed to Michigan as an example of success in athletics without resort to undesirable practices.

"Overwhelmingly," he said, "Michigan teams are made up of men who are not improperly subsidized. Michigan teams, by and large, have been good teams."

The conference, he said, is not a "playing league." Official championships are awarded only in sports in which all members meet one another, he said. Awarding a football championship, he said, "is obviously absurd," since no one team plays all the others

OVER THE STATE by ALEX STODDARD

HOLDREGE high was credited with a 2-0 forfeit victory over Ravenna's cage clan in a midweek game when Ravenna walked off the floor at the start of the second half . . . Two Ravenna players swapped jerseys during the intermission and failed to report the shift to the official scorer or referee . . . When the change was noticed, the referee acted according to the rules by awarding a free throw and ejecting the offending players from the game . . . Faced with the necessity of playing out the contest without the two boys, the Ravennans decided they just didn't want to continue . . . So Holdrege won by forfeit.

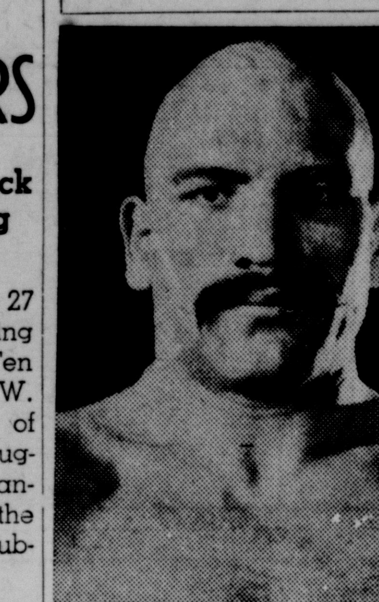

AT LEAST two prep basketball teams are destined to move out of next week's "top 10" selections . . . Wayne high, undefeated in early-season games, fell before Norfolk, 30-21, Friday night and Columbus, rated ninth despite one-point losses to undefeated Jackson and York, is due to bounce as a result of the terrific 43-15 hiding suffered at the hands of Creighton Prep . . . On the other hand, the margin of the Prep victory confirms the previous belief that there isn't another team in the state that rates even close to the Junior Jays.

FOR defensive play, I'd like to nominate Marion Kohel, Crete high center, as the best seen thus far this year in high school circles . . . Kohel, who seldom puts in many points, had Jackson's Waldo Winter under control for three-quarters of the game Friday night, and when Winter finally did break loose to score three baskets in the last quarter, only one was recorded when Kohel was camping on Waldo's back . . . That's quite a performance—allowing only one field goal to a lad who has had 28 and 21 and several "teen"-point nights this season.

FRIDAY'S play produced several other interesting results . . . Omaha Tech, No. 3 in state rankings, had trouble before beating Omaha North, 26-21, while Blair won its tenth straight, after an early-season loss to Kennard, by beating Wahoo, 53-20 . . . Beatrice surprised Fremont, 29-27; Hastings stormed past Geneva, 36-22; Falls City's defending state class A champs romped on Wymore, 45-15; Kearney downed Cozad, 33-27; McCook measured Lexington, 30-22; Scottsbluff beat Mitchell, 25-16; Wilber had too much for Hebron, 44-19, and Grand Island knocked York from the undefeated ranks while maintaining a perfect slate itself, 30-25.

ANNOUNCEMENT by Coach J. R. French of Scottsbluff that Lincoln high had been signed for a two-year home-and-home football contract covering 1940 and '41 assures continuation of a rivalry which produced a spectacular game here last autumn . . . Lincoln won from Scottsbluff, 22-6, and later the schools were ranked No. 1 and No. 2 in the state final standings . . . The 1940 game will be played the night of Oct. 11 in Lincoln. but the following season Lincoln goes to Scottsbluff on Oct. 10 . . . Coach Ralph Beechner of Lincoln admitted to this writer only a few days ago that he had that very thing in mind, but "Beech" doesn't announce his schedule game by game . . . He waits until it's complete, then releases the card—and it shouldn't be long now.

MAKES SCALES GROAN

VALDISLAW TALUN

Danno O'Mahoney, former world's heavyweight champion, will headline the wrestling program next Wednesday night at the 4-H arena at the fair grounds. The usual Tuesday date was abandoned because of the conflict with the birthday celebrations for President Roosevelt.

O'Mahoney is dated to go two falls to a finish with Joe Dusek, while Vladislaw Talun, six-foot nine-inch 298-pound prodigy from Poland, will take on Chief Bearclaws Chewichki in another two-fall finish bout. The opening scrap pits Ron Escheson of St. Joseph against Warren Borkwinkle of St. Louis.

Talun, the massive Pole who has flattened all foes on this his maiden tour of the United States, is being trained and managed by Stanislaws Zbyszko, the original "Zibby" and European champion in his prime.

Young Jays Slaughter Columbus Cagesters

COLUMBUS, Neb., Jan. 27—Coach Marvin Paul's Columbus outfit was unable to break Creighton Prep's victory string here Friday night and Junior Jays made it eight straight with a 43 to 15 victory. JACKSON RINGS UP WIN NO. 7

Yorymen Rally In Final Period In Snatching 25-20 Victory.

By ALEX STODDARD.

CRETE, Neb., Jan. 27 — A spirited, grimly determined Crete high school basketball team made its bid for a place near the top of the state prep parade here Friday night, but faded in the last quarter as Jackson high of Lincoln took the long end of a 25-20 count.

Seven Straight For Jackson.

The game, a Mid-East conference affair, provided Coach "Cy" Yordy's Jackson cagesters with their seventh consecutive victory this year, and the defeat was the second of the season for Crete.

The Doane college gymnasium rafters still are rattling from the spontaneous howling of a packed gallery throughout the final 16 minutes as Jackson made up a nine-point deficit and went on to snatch its triumph over Coach Bob Gibb's battling Cardinals.

Crete Out In Front.

Two and one half minutes had elapsed before Crete took a 3-0 lead on Redman's follow shot and his gift toss. Neihart and Powell picked up charity tosses, but Redman sank two more free throws to put Crete in front, 5-2, at the end of the first quarter.

Hereth's free throw, Vifquain's set-up and Redman's under-basket shot boosted the count to 10-2 before Neihart got Jackson's first field goal just 13 minutes after the top-off. Redman's pivot shot was followed by an exchange of one-pointers by W. Winter and Loetterie, then Neihart's hook shot and W. Winter's free throw pulled Jackson up to 13-8. Redman's corner shot swished through just before the intermission.

Eight seconds after the second half started, Redman again connected from an angle, but Bottorff and Cutshall hit in short order before Vifquain picked up a free throw. Neihart's basket and gift toss narrowed the Crete margin to 18-15 going into the last quarter.

Winter Gets Going.

Waldo Winter tipped in a follow shot, then Cutshall tied the count just one minute after the period opened with a one-pointer on Redman's foul. Neihart's close-in shot sent Jackson ahead for the first time, but Redman evened things from the foul line. The next four minutes were scoreless, but W. Winter potted five points in the last 50 seconds for victory.

For Jackson, Marshall Neihart and Waldo Winter scored most of the points, but the floor play of Vincent Cutshall was one of the big reasons why Jackson still is undefeated. Don Redman dropped in 15 points for Crete, while Dick Vifquain's floor work was good and Marion Kohel had Waldo Winter under a blanket for three quarters and was the outstanding defensive performer of the game.

Jackson's "B" team took a 9-0 lead in the first quarter and wound up with a 29-14 margin over the Crete seconds. The score:

Lincoln Hi Tossers Come Back To Smash Long Losing Streak

Capital City Cagers Turn In Victory Over Sioux City East.

By DON KELLOGG.

A STUBBORN second half defense coupled with three high scoring periods gave Coach Ralph Beechner's Lincoln high five a surprising 40 to 37 win over Sioux City East at the Whittier gym Friday night. The contest, a Missouri Valley league game, produced Lincoln's first basket success after five straight reverses.

Lincoln Goes Ahead.

Showing a determination from the outset, the Red and Black rang up a 14 to 9 quarter lead as Buddy King, the two Wilkinson brothers, Ray and Floyd, along with Merlin James, banged the leather into the hoop from all angles.

The second period started out in much the same manner, but the Sioux City lads weren't ready to make concessions. Combining a series of smooth passes with deadly accuracy, the Iowans proceeded to drop in 16 tallies and take command of a 25 to 24 half-time score.

With only slightly over a minute left in the second canto, East laid in a devastating barrage of ringers that saw them cut down a 24 to 17 lead.

Healthy Foul Total.

Exceptionally rough all the way because of the fast and furious play, 33 personal fouls were assessed by Officials Mathias Volz and Morris Fisher. Ray Wilkinson garnered nine points to lead the Beechnerites, although he retired via the foul route shortly after the last half got under way.

While Lincoln's stout defense held the visitors to only six points in the third period, the Capital City lads went right out to collect an even dozen for themselves.

Sioux City crept to a 33 to 31 count with half of the final period gone, but Paul Hyland slipped in a fielder for a side and big Floyd Wilkinson tossed a perfect pass to James on an out-of-bounds play to establish the remainder of the Lincoln total.

Buddy Sparks Attack.

Jim Mathers, East's center, flipped in five fielders and a like number of free throws to lead the invaders. He tossed Sioux City's last basket, but the Lincoln five managed to keep the leather in their possession until the final gun barked.

Besides the outstanding play of the Wilkinson duo, Footballer Buddy King provided a much-needed spark for the home club. James then collaborated with the trio to set up a scoring attack that proved too versatile for Sioux City. The score:

Greenberg To Shift To Outfield Station

DETROIT, Jan. 27—(INS)—A sense of duty and a desire to be a "team player" were the reasons listed today by Hank Greenberg, Detroit Tigers' slugging first-baseman, for his acceptance of an outfield assignment for the coming season.

HANK GREENBERG

Greenberg's acquiescence to the management suggestion that he shift to the outfield settled a couple of knotty problems. Immediately after the announcement by Hank, General Manager Jack Zeller reported that Rudy York, a natural first-baseman who was shifted to catcher because of Greenberg's stranglehold on the initial sack job, will succeed Hank at the first corner.

Yorkers Fall Short In Clash at Grand Island

GRAND ISLAND Neb., Jan. 27 York high played Grand Island even up in every period but the second, when Roy Mandery's outfit outscored the Dukes, 11 to 1. The Third City clan was ahead 20 to 7 at the half, but York closed in the last half, falling only five points short. Final score, Grand Island 30, York 25. Devereaux's nine points led the Grand Island scoring, while Myers with eight was tops for York. The score:

GIVES OKAY TO LANDIS SCHEME

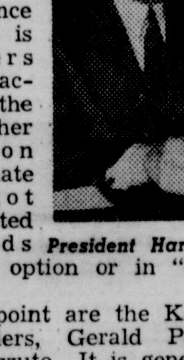

Boss of American League Praises Plan Drafted By Commissioner.

By WARREN BROWN.

CHICAGO, Jan. 27—(INS)—An unqualified endorsement of Baseball Commissioner K. M. Landis' new plan—a practical remake of major-minor league relationships—today was forthcoming from Will Harridge, president of the American league. Owner P. K. Wrigley of the Chicago Cubs added his endorsement.

"Farm" System Condemned.

The new Landis plan, a 1,500-word document handed out yesterday, which may be accepted or rejected by the clubs, is at once a condemnation of the abuses of the "farm" system and a remedy for most of the ills of major-minor league baseball.

President Harridge

The essence of the plan is that players shall be acquired by the clubs of higher classification for immediate service — not for anticipated future needs and not on option or in "cover up" deals.

Cases in point are the Kansas City infielders, Gerald Priddy and Phil Rizzuto. It is generally agreed that they are ready for the major leagues. However, they will be in Kansas City until such time as the parent club, the New York Yankees, sees fit to bring them up.

Denied Chance to Advance.

Under the Landis plan, these two either would have to be sold before Sept. 1 last year, or be eligible to the selective draft. Thus the youngsters would have an earlier chance at major league fame and fortune, and if the Yankees weren't able to use them, some other major league club would get them.

The same thing would apply to players coming out of college—they can be taken on by major league clubs, but they can't be hidden out. If they are not of immediate service, they become available for all other major league clubs, and after them the class AA's and so down until they find their proper level.

According to the American league president, Harridge, this is the chief attraction of the plan. Harridge said:

Puts Hobbles On Greedy.

"A few major league clubs will not be able to round up all the players, but only those for which they have use. This will render available to other clubs many fine players which are now shut out to them, and thus a better balance will be maintained all around."

Harridge declared he sees no reason why the Landis suggestions cannot be put into effect.

Under the Landis plan, there would be no such thing as major league ownership of a minor league club, with its resultant optioned players or "cover up" players. Up to Sept. 1, at which time the players would be eligible for the draft, the minor league club which owned them (and no longer acted merely as agent for the parent major league club) would have ample chance to open the market and sell its men to the highest bidder.

New Yorkers Disagree.

NEW YORK, Jan. 27—(AP)—New York's baseball magnates expressed mixed feelings today toward the new plan which Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis has advanced for remedying what he believes to be the ills of the major and minor leagues.

Ed Barrow, president of the world champion Yankees, who have many valuable minor league holdings, declined to comment until he gets an official copy of the plan

Larry McPhail, president of the Brooklyn Dodgers, doubted whether the Landis scheme, which, he conceded, has some merit, would work. Horace Stoneham, head of the Giants, rejected the plan flatly.

"The whole thing sounds to me like Leslie O'Connor's (O'Connor is secretary to the national baseball commission) pet idea of socializing baseball," declared Stoneham. "I'm not for it."

"There is no reason why the two schools of thought should not get together soon to consider the judge's proposals," said McPhail. "I believe there is some merit in them. However, I doubt if this utopian plan is workable.

"The job now is to hold the minors together."

Dizzy And Boss Get Together On Salary

CHICAGO, Jan. 27—(INS)—The perennial squabble over Dizzy Dean's salary appeared to have come to an abrupt and unexpectedly early end today, with both the pitcher and his Chicago Cub owners well satisfied.

It was reported that Dean and Owner P. K. Wrigley had agreed over the telephone on a contract based on production. If Dean doesn't make good next season, he'll get about $10,000. But if he makes good, he'll get more, presumably something like the $20,000 he has been accustomed to.

That suits Ole Diz, for, as usual, he is supremely confident he will make good. The new contract has been mailed to him. Dean, who believes his lame arm is now cured, previously said he was tired of the publicity annually attendng his contract difficulties.

Peru Steps In Front State College Race

Peru held undisputed first place in the N. I. A. A. basketball race today by virtue of its 35-25 victory over Wayne at Peru Friday night. Peru went in front early and never was headed, leading 16-8 at the half. It was the ninth straight victory for the Bobcats.

Midland picked up momentum, after a slow first half on its home floor, to defeat Dana, 42-22. Midland was ahead at intermission, 17-11.

At Seward, Doane college defeated Concordia, 36-23, with close guarding which forced Concordia to try for long shots that for the most part fell short. Doane led, 19-13, at the half.

Chadron Teachers edged out St. Regis of Denver at Chadron, 42-41, after the Denver lads pulled into a one-point lead in the last two minutes. Bedrosin, Regis guard, counted six points in that time, but Armstrong, Chadron guard, flipped in a goal and Planansky, another guard, two free throws to put the Eagles in the lead again.

Gotham Ball Clubs To Put Game News On Air

NEW YORK, Jan. 27—(INS)—New York's three major league baseball clubs have decided to broadcast their games again in 1940, according to plans announced today. The Giants and Yankees will air only home games, while the Brooklyn Dodgers disclosed that games both at home and abroad will be broadcast.

Outright sale of Rookie Infielder Frank Scalzi to the New Orleans Pelicans was announced by the Giants, who disclosed that Pitcher John Wittig had agreed on terms for 1940.

"BIG TRAIN" TO RUN FOR CONGRESS SEAT

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27—(INS)—Walter Johnson, the retired "Big Train" of the pitching mound, has announced his candidacy for the republican nomination for congress in the sixth Maryland district. The incumbent is William D. Byron, a democrat. Johnson entered small-scale politics in 1938, when he was the only republican elected to the Montgomery county board of commissioners, an office he now holds. He lives on a farm in nearby Maryland.
